

Recognition and information provision in the time of Covid-19:
The role of Higher Education Institutions

Information provision in awarding qualifications:
how to provide transparent information on study programs and qualifications awarded

Gianluca Zucconelli,
IUAV University of Venice

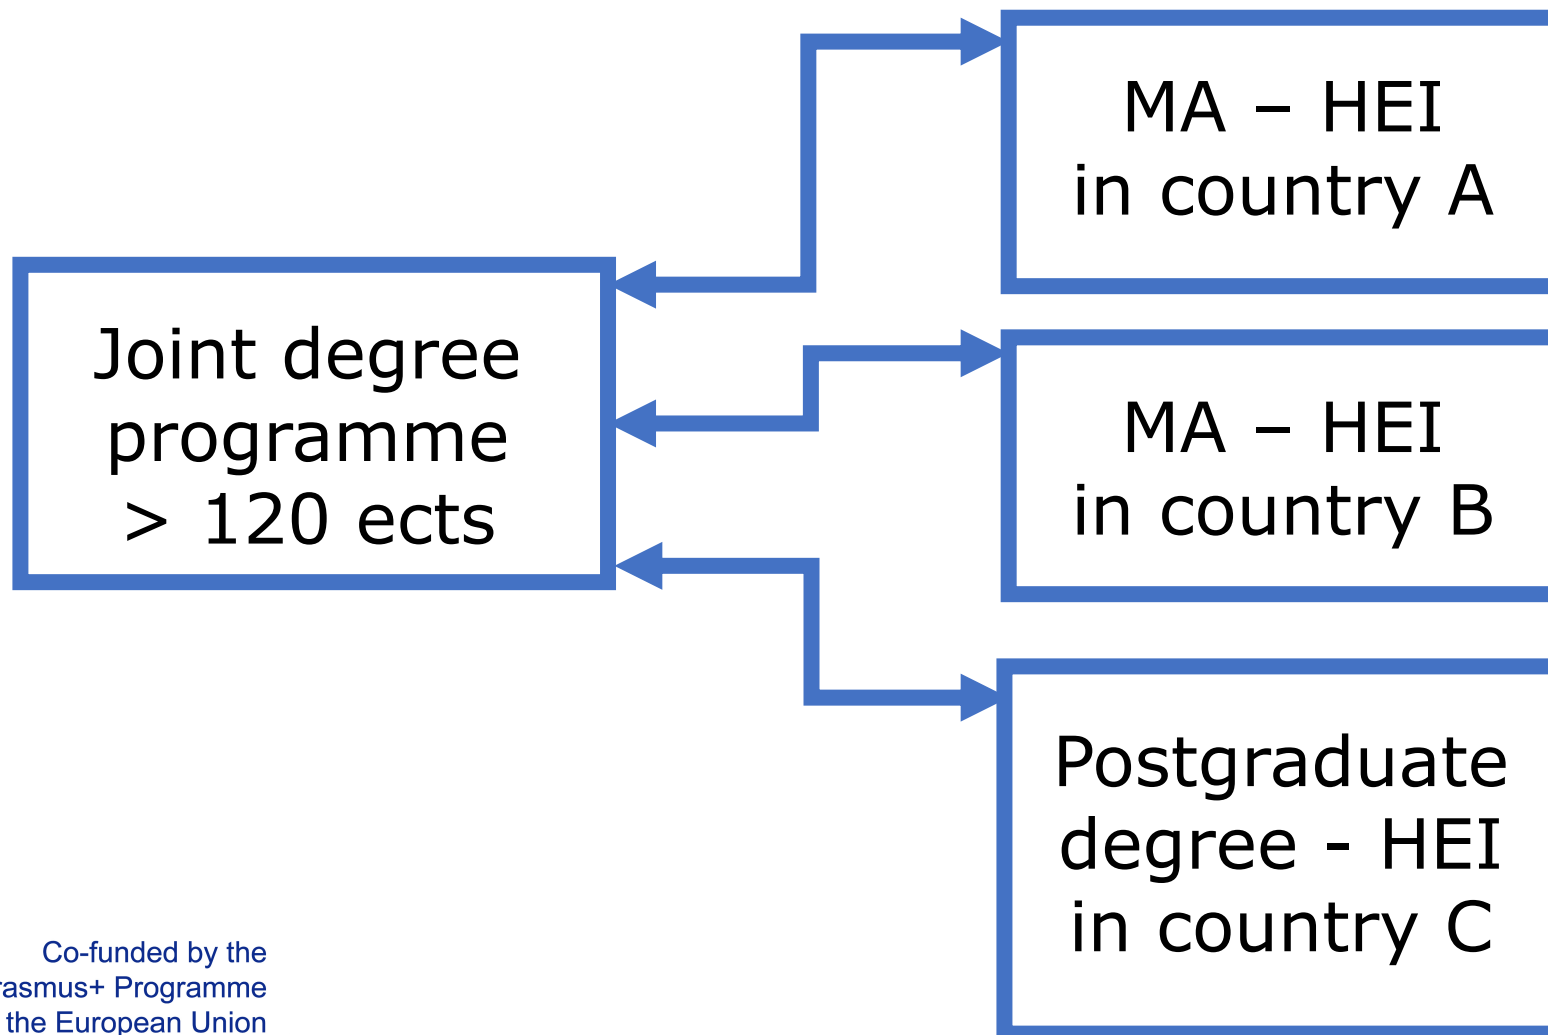

Once upon a time...

A brilliant candidate decided to apply for a PhD programme in the smallest Italian public university dealing with design and architecture.

This candidate was holding a joint degree.

Admission to a PhD programme?

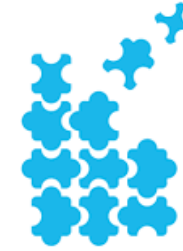

Of course!

Never ever!

Maybe!

Yes, it's possible as the academic board told us we must admit this candidate

We are not able to understand if this degree allows the candidate to be admitted

PhD School was going on with the admission procedure

We are not in charge for this topic: we just manage our admission process

All info are on

On webpage of the Joint Degree programme:

«At the end of the 120 ECTS, students will be awarded a second level joint degree. A joint degree is a single diploma issued by at least the institutions offering this integrated study programme.

The title has no expiry date.

It gives access to third level courses according to national law.

The recognition of this master's degree in each country follows the specific national rules.»

Tips about information provision for your students

Provide automatically the Diploma Supplement

Cooperate with different stakeholders involved (other HEIs, Academics, Officers)

Provide clear information on your website with a focus on

- > Qualification awarded and academic rights
- > Job market opportunities
- > Contact point
