

Comparative overview of applications

1 Legal Form

The choice of the legal form is important as it can have implications on the governance and the operation of Long-term secretariat( LTS).

The applicants were invited to

1. explain whether and how an association and a foundation could be established in their national legal system, what would the consequences for the governance and operation of the LTS.
2. indicate other possible legal forms
3. share their views on which of these forms would be preferable and why

Preferred legal form	Association (implicit)	Structure within the DZS agency	Association	Association	Entity of international nature
Other legal forms presented	Foundation, Non-profit company	/	Foundation, Non-profit company	Foundation	/
Other legal forms possible (not supported)		Association, Foundation		/	/

The TF came to the following conclusions:

- The non-profit company, mentioned by CY and DE, might also be possible in other countries, but does not align well with the BFUG's governance. Therefore, the TF has not further explored it.
- An association would be preferable to a foundation, as it is easier to establish (no foundation capital; no founding members), and better aligned with the governance of the BFUG. This is supported by applications of CY, DE and RO, which see association as the preferred model.
- TR proposes the establishment of an “international organisation/entity” as the only feasible form by which the BFUG can establish the LTS. A particularity of this legal form is that its establishment is subject to the endorsement of the President of Türkiye. The question remains whether and to what extent the features of and conditions for the “international organisation” are similar that of an “association”.
- The CZ proposes the establishment of the LTS within an existing publicly funded, but fairly autonomous national agency, as an approach that in their view would be preferable to an association. Hence, the LTS would not be a legal entity itself. CZ highlights the de facto high level of independence that the National Agency itself enjoys, which would extend to the LTS. In addition, CZ proposes to lay down more detailed rules and conditions to ensure a high level of operational autonomy of the LTS from the National Agency, and its governance through the BFUG.
